

Residential Life/Housing Frequently Asked Questions

Transition is an important aspect of going to college. Here at SAGU we strive to make the transition between home and college as smooth as possible. We have 5 resident directors, Dorm Pastors, along with 32 student leaders, Resident Assistants, who are trained and dedicated to the task of helping students in this transition. Our goal is to provide a living and learning environment that facilitates the social, spiritual and academic success of each student under our care.

2) When will I receive a specific room assignment?

New students cannot be assigned a room until the Admissions office has received the $150.00 Residence Hall Deposit and the student has been accepted or pre-accepted to SAGU. When a student is placed, a packet will be sent by mail from the Residential Life office. This packet will include their room assignment, roommate information, and relevant campus life information.

3) Who will my roommate be?

As part of the Admissions process, new students will fill out a Residence Hall Request Form. This form is used to gather basic information about the student in order for the Residential Life office to attempt to make a reasonably compatible match. Your roommate's name and contact information will be mailed to you when you have been placed in a room.

4) May I select my roommate?

There is a space on the Residence Hall Request form for a new student to request a specific roommate. Since students are placed on a weekly basis, it is important that both students complete their application and send their deposits as close together as possible.

5) What if I did not get placed in my first choice residence hall, or my roommate is not who I requested?

The Residential Life office makes every attempt to place new students in the residence hall of their choice, or with the roommate of their choice. Naturally however, we have a limited capacity for each residence hall, and although we guarantee dorm residence, we cannot guarantee a specific residence hall or roommate. Room changes may be made through your dorm pastor for a short period of time after late registration.

6) When do I need to arrive on campus?

New students may move into their rooms on the first day of New Student Orientation. Note: Due to significant increases in enrollment, every student living in the residence halls must be checked into their assigned room by 5:00 pm on the first day of registration, unless other arrangements have been made. Any student not checked in may lose their reservation.

7) Are private rooms available?

Single occupancy rooms are available only when space provides. If a private room is available after late registration, an additional fee of $300 will be charged for the room. The University reserves the right to assign full occupancy of all rooms on campus. Requests for single rooms are honored on a first come, first served basis with priority given to returning students.

8) What are the rooms furnished with?

All rooms are furnished with a bed, dresser, and a desk for each student. They are also furnished with a Micro Fridge (microwave/refrigerator combo), network and phone lines, and a VoIP phone. Bridges and Teeter Halls have limited cable TV access.

Local calls, voice mail, an electronic campus directory, caller ID, and call waiting are all available to students for no additional charge. If a student needs to call long distance, they must call collect or use a prepaid phone card. You will receive your phone extension in the packet containing your housing assignment. If you want to receive any telephone calls from your family and friends, you will be responsible for providing them with your phone number, as the Federal Privacy Act prevents the school from giving this information to anyone.

10) Are the beds standard sizes?

The beds at SAGU have extra long mattresses. Deep pocket twin sheets or extra long twin sheets will fit the beds and are available from most department stores. In some cases, normal twin size sheets will fit.

If the student provides the Enrollment Office with this written documentation, $100 will be refunded to the student.
