Why get an associate degree?

Adding an associate degree to your goals while here at SAGU can help increase your marketability by making you into a “T-shaped professional” when you graduate. T-shaped professionals have developed a broad skill set and knowledge base as well as deep expertise in their field, all of which enable them to be experts who can collaborate with others effectively. This sets them apart and strengthens their marketability and chances for success. Thus, pursuing a cross-disciplinary AA or AS degree now can be very advantageous later.

Additionally, an associate degree can give you the chance to explore different fields of interest to pursue on a deeper level later. Whether you already have chosen your major or are still deciding, this exploration can help you choose your first major, an additional major, or even a graduate degree.

Finally, most majors provide general elective options as part of their program requirements, and the program distinctions between your major and your associate degree can often fit within your elective hours, meaning that you don't even have to add semesters or credit hours to your expected total.

College of Bible and Church Ministries

22-23 Catalog

OVERVIEW

The Intercultural Studies program integrates theological, missiological, and practical training in order to equip students to communicate the Gospel cross-culturally and to advance the establishment of indigenous churches among every nation, tribe, and tongue through church planting, leadership development, and holistic ministry. During this program of study, students will engage in significant field experiences.

Students completing the ICS AA program should expect to:

Discuss God's redemptive purpose and revealed in the Old and New Testament.

Explain key principles for maintaining physical, mental, spiritual, and relational wholes in a cross-cultural environment.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

U.S. or World Missions, Church Planting, TESOL, Teen Challenge, chaplaincy (various forms), relief and development, international business, campus ministries (Chi Alpha), refugee ministry community development and service, Bible School/Ministry training instruction, non-profit service, parachurch ministry, orphan care, human trafficking, child care ministries, Bible translation.

Our graduates have gone on to serve in countries all of the world; reaching unreached people groups, caring for the poor, pioneering churches, teaching in seminaries, translating the Bible into languages that had no written Word of God, working both stateside and abroad with non-profits and non-government organizations.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- Professors have a combined experience of over 100 years in missionary service.
- The ICS program prepares students for service in an increasingly multi-cultural world.
